Majority Of Suez Canal User Nations Back Big 3 Proposal

Plea For Law, Justice Made By Secretary

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles asked 18 nations today to press Egypt for a share in control of Suez Canal traffic. He plainly indicated the canal might be boycotted if Egypt refused to cooperate.

Dulles added an emphatic warning that an eventual Suez solution must conform with justice and law as well as with peace.

Five of the countries at the conference balked at the Dulles outline of the project.

He characterized the canal dispute as a test case of the world's ability to deal with its problems. "If there is no substitute for force in achieving just solutions the world will relapse into chaos," he said.

Russia Proposes Parley

While Dulles was speaking in London, the Soviet Union came out for a six-nation Suez negotiation conference composed of the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union, Egypt and India.

In Cairo, Egypt's President Nasser summoned his Cabinet to a special night meeting on the dispute. Before the Egyptians presumably have Dulles' London outline of the users' association plan. Nasser already has rejected it as illegal and a danger to world peace.

In Damascus, Arab political leaders called for "an immediate general military and economic mobilization" in their countries and military training of civilians to resist the West. At their rally they also called on Arab governments to prepare an Arab boycott against the West, barring Arab oil and use of bases and airports.

Dulles Speaks Twice

The 18-nation conference here—called to consider the next steps in the explosive dispute—wound up its first day's sessions with a majority backing the Western Big Three project to form a users' association. It is intended to protect the rights of international shipping in the now Egyptianized Suez Canal.

Dulles spoke twice: at the morning session to launch the users' project and in the afternoon to make his appeal for justice and law.

Some smaller nations expressed misgivings about the project. Denmark favored an immediate appeal to the U.N. Sweden, Iran and Spain suggested new negotiations with Egypt. Pakistan rejected the Western plan as looking like an attempt at an imposed settlement.

Israel Protests Ship Seizure By Egyptians

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—Israel protested to the U.N. Security Council today against Egypt's reported confiscation of the Israeli cargo ship Bat Galim, seized two years ago at the Suez Canal.

The protest was submitted by Meadeai R. Kidron, Israeli representative to the U.N., for distribution to Council members.

The Bat Galim was carrying a mixed cargo of meat, plywood and hides from Massawa, Eritrea, toward Haifa, Israel, when it was detained by Egyptian authorities Sept. 28, 1954.

Kidron said the Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar reported last month the Bat Galim was incorporated into the Egyptian navy when public auction failed to find a buyer.

Adlai Criticizes Administration Labor Policies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson today assailed the Eisenhower administration's labor policy and promised he would apply "new imagination," if elected, to spread the benefits of atomic energy and other new techniques.

In addition to his labor statement, telephoned to the United Steelworkers convention at Los Angeles, the Democratic presidential nominee made known he would add an "extra dimension" to his campaign by issuing a series of detailed statements on some basic issues.

"Major Affirmations"

Stevenson's press secretary, Clayton Fritchey, said the candidate will put out five or six such statements in a form that will enable him to elaborate his views without regard to the "entertainment" or other limitations of political rally speeches.

Fritchey said these statements will be in the nature of "major affirmations," with the first two tentatively slated to cover "human resources" such as better educational facilities and more attention to the problem of using middle-aged and elderly persons to the greater benefit of themselves and the nation.

First Due This Weekend

The first of these statements is expected to be issued over the weekend, with the others to follow on an average of once a week between now and Election Day. Other topics penciled in for the statements include health, national resources and "rebuilding of our cities."

Stevenson, meantime, arranged a breather from his campaign chores and decided to attend to night a new musical comedy, "Li'l Abner", at the National Theatre here.

Israel Censured

D. C. School Integration Brought "Sex Problems"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—A retired Washington high school principal told House investigators today racial integration brought serious discipline and sex problems to his school and another witness said desegregation was ordered too quickly.

John Paul Collins submitted a sworn statement to a public congressional hearing saying integration problems contributed to a breakdown of his health which forced him to retire as principal of Eastern High School.

Collins said "many sex problems" developed at the school and disciplinary problems became "tremendous."

Food Stamp Plan Report Made Public

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today made public its recent report to Congress on a food stamp plan—described as a secret document by the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, Estes Kefauver.

Prepared at the request of Congress, the report contains no conclusions as to the advisability of inaugurating a food stamp plan. The estimated cost for such a procedure for disposing of surplus farm commodities was placed at 1½ billion dollars annually.

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse described the report as a "preliminary and not necessarily a final one."

Democrats endorsed a food stamp plan at their convention in Chicago. Kefauver said in St. Paul, Minn., today that the plan would cost less than the administration's program for handling surplus crops, and at the same time result in a wider distribution of foods to needy persons.

The department report estimated that as many as 15 million persons might share in a food stamp plan, if participation was open to those families which have to spend 40 per cent or more of their income on food.

Based on price levels as of June 1954, the report calculated this would let a family of four participate if annual income was no more than $2,860.

Under the Eisenhower administration's program for disposing of surplus commodities, some foodstuffs are distributed directly to families on relief. Under the food stamp plan, needy persons would be given stamps they could use for food purchases at regular retail stores. The government would redeem the stamps from food merchants.

Stockholm Mate Tells Of Collision

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—The third mate of the Swedish liner Stockholm testified today he gave a "hard to starboard" order just before the July 25 collision with the Italian liner Andrea Doria.

Ernest Carstens-Johansen, 26, said he had sighted the starboard side of the Andrea Doria to the Stockholm's port. In sea terms starboard is right and port is left. "I saw a collision and I ordered full astern and hard to starboard," he said.

Carstens-Johansen was the first witness in the taking of pretrial depositions in federal court in damage actions growing out of the crash.

He said he was in charge of the bridge at the time, and that between the time he first saw the Andrea Doria and gave his order he did not summon the captain nor sound whistle signals.

The Andrea Doria sank and the Stockholm suffered heavy damage. About 50 lives were lost, mostly on the Andrea Doria.

Quarles In Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 19 (AP)—U. S. Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles flew in from Athens today to present the first of a number of American jet planes to Turkey.

B52s Grounded Pending Probe

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—For the second time this year, the Air Force has grounded all its B52 jet bombers—the biggest plane in its nuclear striking force—until it learns the cause of a fatal crash.

Air Force headquarters, announcing this today in response to inquiries, said the grounding order was a "precautionary measure" taken after one of the eight-million-dollar aerial giants crashed Monday in California.

Spokesmen said they couldn't estimate how long the planes might be grounded.

Five airmen died in the California accident, in which an eight-jet B52 burst into flames while in flight and fell in pieces.

In a similar accident last February, three airmen lost their lives. Both crashes involved planes based at Castle Air Force Base, Calif.

The Air Force said the B52s, though grounded, will be readied for flight daily with crews standing by.

"In any need or emergency," it said, "the B52s will fly."

The big bomber can travel more than 6,000 miles without aerial refueling. It can cruise at an altitude exceeding 50,000 feet at a speed of more than 650 miles an hour.

Case Will Be Taken To Federal Court, Attorney Declares

STURGIS, Ky., Sept. 19 (AP)—After attending classes for nearly two weeks, eight Negro students were barred from Sturgis High School today and an attorney said he planned to take their case to federal court.

A white boycott of the school began lifting immediately after the Negroes were barred. Troops remained on guard here and in nearby Clay.

"We will ask for a temporary as well as permanent injunction against the school," said James Crumlin, Louisville attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Crumlin said the suit would be filed at Owensboro. He already filed suit earlier asking that four Negroes be reinstated at Clay consolidated school. The Negroes were refused admittance yesterday on orders of the Webster County Board of Education.

Order Read To Negroes

The eight Negroes left Sturgis high this morning after the principal, H. Earl Evans, read them the Union County board's order.

Both school boards based their orders on an opinion from the state attorney general's office. The opinion said the Negroes were not legally enrolled because neither board had taken official action to start integration.

Adj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams, commander of National Guardsmen here and at Clay, said they will remain on duty for the time being.

"In my opinion," Williams added, "no change will be made in the situation until Gov. A. B. Chandler reviews the situation." Chandler is now in Chicago on a business trip.

May Be Oldest Human In World

Javier Pereira is not too old to enjoy kissing pretty Juanita Wintermute, 26, the stewardess of an airliner that brought him to New York from Miami yesterday. Javier, 4 foot-4-inch, 75-pound native of Colombia, estimates his age at 167, and, if that is correct, would have been born the same year that George Washington, whose picture he holds, was inaugurated. The spy little Indian can't read or write and the estimate of his age can be made through association of events he claims he remembers. He is to be studied by scientists and doctors to determine the longevity secret of what may be the oldest living human.

Target Of FBI Hunt In Riesel Blinding Seized

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—A shadowy figure in the racket-ridden garment industry was seized today in the acid-blinding of labor columnist Victory Riesel. He is Theodore Rij, 43, the target of a nationwide FBI manhunt.

Rij was described as a henchman of John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi, alleged ringleader in the April 5 acid attack on the newspaperman. Police quoted Rij as saying he met Riesel about a year ago in a restaurant on 52nd St.

It was not the crack sleuths of the FBI who caught up with the husky, florid-faced Rij, but two detectives of New York's W. 30th St. station. They were Frank O'Sullivan and Edward Cavanagh.

Marine Accused Of Hitting Recruit Will Go On Trial

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Marine Corps today ordered a special court-martial to try a corporal accused of slugging a raw recruit in the stomach at this training base.

Pvt. Donald Hamislar, 20, of Norwalk, Ohio, said he was punched and pushed on his second day here for failing to say "sir" to the corporal who was issuing equipment to his platoon.

Hamislar and Cpl. Richard J. Bille of Erie, Pa., appeared before Lt. Col. Oscar Peatross, commander of the 5th Recruit Training Battalion, in a preliminary hearing. Peatross awarded Bille a special court-martial, without setting a date for it to convene.

The hearing was closed, but a special court-martial would be open to the public.

Three Cypriots To Be Hanged

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Sept. 19 (AP)—Three young Greek Cypriots were told today they must die on the gallows for anti-British violence.

An angry noisy demonstration erupted in Nicosia's Central prison.

A Greek Orthodox priest said three had been notified they would be hanged tomorrow night or early Friday. Past hangings have come in the early morning hours.

The convicted men told relatives they were proud to die as heroes.

Their last hope of reprieve evaporated when Sir John Harding, governor of this British island colony, ordered that "justice take its course in each case."

Two of the condemned, Andreas Panayides and Michael Koutsoufas, both 22, were convicted of shooting a British air force corporal to death May 16. The third, Stelios Mavromatis, 23, shot at two air force men March 15.

Bulganin Calls For Six-Nation Parley On Suez

By KINGSBURY SMITH
General Manager INS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (INS)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin offered today in a statement to International News Service to confer immediately with President Eisenhower and the heads of the British, French, Indian and Egyptian governments on the Suez Canal crisis.

Immediate reaction in Washington and the other western capitals was cool or noncommittal, while Egypt indicated interest.

Comment Withheld

In London, where the U. S., Britain and France are meeting with 15 other nations on the Suez Canal users association plan promoted by Secretary of State Dulles, the conference delegates withheld comment pending a study of the Bulganin statements.

The Soviet premier made his offer in reply to questions submitted by this correspondent, dealing with the Kremlin's position on the Suez problem created by Egypt's nationalization of the vital canal last July 26.

Bulganin, stating that a conference of Russia's government leaders with the heads of other interested powers would "open the way to a peaceful settlement" of the Suez dispute, suggest Geneva as a possible site for such a meeting.

He said, however, he was prepared to join with the other government leaders "at any time . . . in any acceptable place."

First U. S. Reaction

First official U. S. Reaction came from State Department spokesman Lincoln White in Washington. He said:

"I wish to make no other comment than to say that the countries which have been making every effort to realize a just and peaceful solution of the Suez question are continuing to do just that in London today."

Secretary Dulles, attending the London meeting, had no immediate comment.

Opposes Adlai On Calling Off H-Tests, Draft

President Confident
He Has Strength To Serve Second Term

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower declared tonight that in a world confronted by "grave problems" America stands ready to dedicate its vast strength "to serving the needs, rather than the fears of the world."

In an address built around a single word—peace—the President said that "our task is far from done." And he said that the people of the world, including the Soviet leaders, "must never be deceived—or delighted—by any myth of American weakness."

This was Eisenhower's first big speech of the presidential campaign, an address prepared for delivery over the CBS television and radio network from studios here.

The President went into his campaign kickoff saying that he has a personal kind of peace "granted to me by the mercy of the Almighty." And then he said:

"It is this firm conviction: I am confident of my own physical strength to meet all the responsibilities of the presidency, today and in the years just ahead. If I were not so convinced, I would never have accepted renomination to this office."

Few Digs At Stevenson

"I hope this conviction—this peace of mind—may bring assurance to many others, as I stand ready to serve as your president for another four years, if this be your will."

That was his only reference to the fact that he is nearing the end of a year in which he suffered a heart attack and then, a few months later, underwent a major intestinal operation.

Nor was there any other thundering against the Democrats in this opening campaign address of the chief executive. Nevertheless Eisenhower didn't pass up a chance to take a couple of digs at his Democratic rival, Adlai E. Stevenson, although he didn't mention Stevenson's name.

Whereas Stevenson has proposed halting hydrogen bomb tests if other nations give assurances they will go along, Eisenhower told his audience tonight that "we cannot prove wise and strong by any such simple device as suspending, unilaterally, our H-bomb tests."

He said America's atomic knowledge and power have forged a shield for freedom and the wise future use and control of this power can be assured, not by "any theatrical national gesture—but only by explicit and supervised international agreements."

Cannot "Walk Into Past"

In the next breath, the President said, too, that "we cannot prove wise and strong by hinting that our military draft might soon be suspended—even though every family naturally hopes for the day when it might be possible."

"This—I state categorically—cannot be done under world conditions of today," the former five-star general said. "It would weaken our own armed forces. It would propagate neutralist sentiment everywhere. And it would shock us."

McKeldin Declares Democrats 'Unready' To Take Over Reins

OCEAN CITY, Md., Sept. 19 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin said tonight the Democratic leaders are "unready—very obviously unready—to assume the reins of government."

The Republican governor said the leadership of the opposition party... is a conglomeration of festering bitterness with long-established personal hatreds and distrusts.

"Here in Maryland," he said, "you have the same situation in miniature—a group of oft-repudiated men—each struggling for personal power and aggrandizement—each without concern for the wishes of their party's rank-and-file."

The governor made his remarks in presenting Sen. John Marshall Butler as guest speaker at a banquet of the Maryland State Licensed Beverage Assn. Butler is being opposed for re-election by Democrat George P. Mahoney.

McKeldin described Butler as "a distinguished and successful Marylander with a firm faith in the freedom and the future of the American way of life."

Butler, he said, is "a true statesman... one who listens to his constituents and serves them, one with the interests of his state and his nation at heart, one who knows the meaning of and the means to orderly representative government."

McKeldin said he would not attempt to discuss the platforms of the two parties, but he said "you will find that there is more clarity, courage and conviction in the Republican planks than in many of the declarations of doubt and indecision turned out in the tortuous hours in the Chicago stockyards."

"We are united," he said, "behind the plans and the policies of Dwight David Eisenhower for a strong America and a peaceful world."

He said the Democrats are "devoid of issues." "They cannot even coordinate their points of attack... Their candidates for president and vice president are men of clashing philosophies—each of whom has bitterly attacked the past record of the other. They struggled in the suffocating support of those by whom each has been condemned in inerasable words."

Kier's Attorneys Say They'll Ask For New Trial

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 19 (AP)—Court-appointed attorneys for Carl Daniel Kier, convicted slayer of a Baltimore County matron, said today they would ask for a new trial.

The attorneys, David N. Bates and William H. Murphy, said they would base their motion on ground the court "erred in its ruling" and that the "verdict was against the weight of the evidence."

Kier was found guilty of first degree murder in the death of Mrs. John H. Bopst Jr., 49, last June 12. The verdict was announced last night by Circuit Judges Michael Paul Smith and Lester L. Barrett, sitting without a jury. Kier faces either the gas chamber or life imprisonment.

Mrs. Bopst was found stabbed and beaten to death in her secluded suburban home. The State contended she also had been raped.

The State succeeded in submitting as evidence a statement made by Kier after his arrest.

The statement said in part: "Around 2 p. m. I went to the home of Mrs. Bopst... to ask for work."

"I went to the front door and knocked on the screen door, but no one answered. I opened the screen door and went into the living room. Just as I got inside Mrs. Bopst came out from the kitchen into the living room."

"She was carrying something in her hand. I don't remember exactly what it was. When Mrs. Bopst saw me she screamed and I got scared and hit her in the face with my fist."

"Mrs. Bopst fell and I tried to leave and Mrs. Bopst grabbed me around the leg and I hit her numerous times with my fist. I then hit her with the sword while she was on the floor, then went into the kitchen and grabbed two knives and returned to the living room and stabbed Mrs. Bopst numerous times as she was beginning to get up off the floor. I then covered Mrs. Bopst's face with a piece of cloth."

"I then went into the bathroom and washed the blood off my hands and wiped my hands on a towel. I then went to the kitchen and took the car keys out of Mrs. Bopst's handbag."

Two Held After Fight With Four Negro Youths

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 19 (AP)—Two white youths were arrested and jailed today on disorderly conduct charges after a fight with four Negro high school boys.

The white youths said the fight started after the sister of one of them was whistled at by the four Negroes.

In jail in lieu of $51.45 collateral each were Archie Blevins, 22, of Maugansville and Carroll Pompell, 23, of Wilmington, Del., who has been visiting Blevins.

Police Chief Jesse Brown said the two youths told him they drove to North Hagerstown High School this afternoon to pick up Blevins' younger sister. As she was getting into the car, Blevins and Pompell said, four Negro boys also leaving the high school, whistled at the white girl.

A fight started and the shirt was torn off one of the Negro boys, Brown said.

Police broke up the fight and arrested Blevins and Pompell. Patrolman Donald Smith said the four Negro boys denied whistling at the Blevins girl.

Hagerstown schools have been integrated since the fall of 1955. There are about 50 Negroes out of a total enrollment of 1,200 at the North Hagerstown High School.

Miller Cool To Rival's Campaign Fund Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Maryland's Eastern Shore Republican congressman described today as a "smoke screen type of issue" a proposal by his Democratic opponent that they accept no campaign contributions from individuals outside the state.

Rep. Edward T. Miller said he wouldn't comment formally on the proposal advanced by Hamilton P. Fox Jr., the Democrat who's running against him for Maryland's First District seat in Congress, until he receives it officially. Fox made the proposal in a letter addressed to Miller's Easton office.

The congressman said offhand he could see "nothing immoral about receiving support from friends wherever they may live."

Miller took exception to Fox's reference to the "fact that you and the First Congressional District campaign committee have received large sums of money from outside the state."

Miller said that in his past five political campaigns "the expenditures of myself and my treasurer have averaged less than $6,000 a campaign."

Women's Division Of Chest Campaign Will Meet Today

Another section of the 1956-57 Community Chest Drive begins its activities when the leaders of the women's division meets today at 2 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Dr. Lillian C. Compton, division chairman, said the division this year has as its aim increased giving by the home-maker as Cumberland women, by past experience, want to have a personal investment in the united giving over that which is contributed by their husbands.

Nine women have volunteered their services as zone leaders. They are:

Zone 1, South End, Mrs. C. E. Nield; Zone 2, Johnson Heights, Mrs. C. B. Pardew; Zone 3, East Side, Mrs. Paul Keller; Zone 4, Bedford Road and Frederick Street area, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave; Zone 5, North End, Miss Mary Thompson; Zone 6, West Side to Allegheny Street, Mrs. Howard J. Milbrada; Zone 7, West Side from Allegheny Street to city limits, Mrs. G. William Harrison; Bowling Green, Cresaptown, Mrs. Winfield H. Adam, and LaVale, Mrs. Ernest Screen.

In addition to these leaders, there will be 35 zone captains. Not all of these have been obtained, Dr. Compton said.

The 35 captains will in turn need 250 women to assist in the house-to-house canvass scheduled on October 10, 11 and 12. Any woman desiring to volunteer her services should contact any of the zone leaders or telephone the Chest Drive office, 111 Union Street, PA 2-3900.

Eves To Seek Location Details On City's Expressway

Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday he is asking the State Roads Commission for advance plans on the Crosstown Expressway so that the city may know where it stands, particularly in the matter of building permits.

The city has been reluctant to issue permits for construction which it believes might be in the path of the expressway or the Industrial Boulevard in South End.

Another major factor in city thinking is parking facilities under the bridge. Green Associates, engineers who are drawing up expressway plans, are not making a separate evaluation of parking. Since the cost of such a separate study might be too high, the city is attempting to see whether it can get the information it seeks free.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long is urging that the evaluation of parking facilities be done by the city Engineering Department and added "I am against any additional engineering costs. I am going by the cost estimates supplied to us originally. Mr. Nuzum (City Engineer C. R. Nuzum) should work it out. What do we have an Engineering Department for, if not for things like this?" he questioned.

At Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council, Long said he would be glad when all the outside engineering costs of the city are at an end. Eves said "there are five of us" who will be happy when that time comes.

Also interested in the expressway parking possibilities is the Merchants Bureau Committee on Off-Street Parking. This Chamber of Commerce group feels that private enterprise would operate the off-street parking program but at the same time believes private financing should know what competition it will face within possibly the next few years when space for cars becomes available under the cross-town span.

It has been indicated that this stage of completion of the expressway will not be reached for three to five years.

Plans for the expressway are expected to be ready for advertising about the middle of November, Eves has said.

Cost of the project has been estimated from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

The everyday woes of a policeman are numerous, and a glance at the annual police report submitted to the Mayor and Council by Chief R. Emmett Flynn proves beyond any doubt the officers have their troubles.

The report, compiled by Mrs. Vivian Turley, traffic clerk, and Mrs. Beulah Leedy, secretary, reveals that during the fiscal year ending June 30, the City Police made a total of 9,655 arrests, answered 4,926 complaints, handled 126 major crimes and 19,494 miscellaneous items, including traffic violations.

During the fiscal year the local authorities had 90 missing person reports, 17 runaways, found six dead bodies, checked 10 suicides or attempted suicides and assisted at 240 fires.

Major Crime Up

The major crimes handled by the local police included one for negligent manslaughter, six statutory assault cases, 46 breaking and enterings, three aggravated assault cases, 136 larcenies and 41 automobile thefts.

The 126 total of major crimes within the city limits was an increase over the 109 figure reported last year.

The miscellaneous offenses included 741 drunkenness, 282 disorderly conduct cases, three panhandling, 48 loitering, 163 investigations, three indecent exposure cases, one liquor law violation, four disturbance of the peace, seven cases of discharging firearms within the city limits, 12 resisting arrests, 17,428 traffic violations, 83 violations of city ordinances, 17 runaways, 17 unsound mind cases and one person held as a witness.

During the 12-month period officers were injured 88 times in the line of duty and 338 days were lost due to sickness, for an average 6.1 days off.

The local police cared for 352 lodgers, found 479 doors and windows open, answered 13 bank alarms, handled 12 nuisance notices, fingerprinted 450 persons, directed traffic for 591 weddings and funerals, served 106 pickup notices and answered 256 complaints about dogs.

The authorities also investigated 229 family arguments, investigated 162 prowlers, answered 4,928 telephone calls, checked 3,500 pawn sheets.

The report also reveals that 97 per cent of the automobiles stolen in Cumberland were recovered. The cars were valued at approximately $20,000.

CD Volunteers Are Needed In Medical Group

The medical profession plays an important role in the Allegany County Civil Defense organization, William G. Barger, CD director, said yesterday.

The medical effort is directed at organizing and training of six casualty clearing stations. These consist of professional medical personnel such as doctors, dentists, pharmacists and nurses. In addition, because the needs of an emergency will require that the trained medical personnel be spread rather thin, volunteers are needed to undertake training to fill less technical but vital spots, Dr. L. E. Daugherty, medical director of Civil Defense announced.

Dr. Daugherty is assisted by Dr. Leo H. Ley as assistant medical director and Raymond Whitehair as chief administrative officer.

Cumberland has been allocated four of the six casualty clearing stations designated by the Maryland Civil Defense Agency for Allegany County. The following are chiefs of the casualty clearing stations for Cumberland and their administrative officers: 1—Dr. G. Overton Himmelwright and Marcus A. Naughton; 2—Dr. Clay Durrett and Thomas K. Whalley; 3—Dr. Leland Ransom; 4—Dr. James G. Stegmaier and William Long. Dr. Martin M. Rothstein is chief of Station 5 in Frostburg and Dr. Paul R. Wilson is chief of Station 6 in Westernport with John Grindle as administrative officer.

During the past winter the nucleus of Casualty Stations 1 and 2 received intensive Red Cross first aid training and are undergoing more detailed operational training under the leadership of Dr. Ley, the chiefs of the stations and their administrative officers. It is planned that a Red Cross first aid course, which is the first requirement for volunteers, will be conducted this fall in Frostburg, to be followed shortly after by one in Cumberland to supply the trained personnel to Stations 3, 4 and 5.

Dr. Daugherty emphasizes that the casualty clearing stations may prove of value should there be a large industrial disaster similar to the recent explosion at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Plant.

McCoole Firemen Get Special Beer License

Three trustees of the McCoole Voluntary Fire Company, Inc., have obtained a special one-day beer license for September 21 from the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

The board held in abeyance the application of Mrs. Caroline Garber, 211 Beall Street, for a Class D beer license at Caroline's Tavern, 16 South Mechanic Street. On August 7 the board refused to give Mrs. Garber a beer license for premises on Front Street.

State To Hike Welfare Aid In November

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19 (AP)—Maryland is planning to increase payments $10 a month for welfare patients in nursing homes and $5 a month for foster care of children.

The increases go into effect Nov. 1 in subdivisions that can afford it then and in all subdivisions not later than the next levy date.

Payments to nursing homes in Baltimore and the larger counties will go to $115.50 for complete care and to $85.50 for partial care of ambulatory patients. In the smaller counties the rates will increase to $105.50 and $75.50.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of public welfare, said the larger amounts for nursing homes will make it less difficult to place indigent patients. He said it also will enable the Health Department to insist on proper standards in nursing homes.

Maryland has 1,427 welfare patients in nursing homes. Of these 1,170 are in the old age assistance category. The others are permanently and totally disabled.

Cresaptown Boy Sent To Training School

A 15-year-old Cresaptown youth was sentenced temporarily to the Maryland Training School for Boys yesterday in Juvenile Court by Magistrate Morris Baron.

The youth was found guilty of the theft of two automobiles over the weekend, and several thefts over a period of several months.

Baron said the boy will remain at the training home until a final decision in the case is made.

Once a week, give your face a thorough cleansing treatment with a pore pack (or mask) or cleansing grains.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Blackheads Begone

Can your complexion stand close scrutiny? Perhaps you are the girl who is so often admired across a room. A boy may ask to meet you. But, invariably when you are brought together for an introduction, he finds a way to excuse himself. One quick look at your complexion, and he has no further interest.

Perhaps you are a victim of a blackhead condition. Like so many, you have neglected enlarged pores, and now you are suffering from embarrassment. Don't be unhappy or depressed by it all — get busy immediately and do what you can to clear up your skin. The dislodgment of a blackhead (or comedo) by force is never recommended. Bruising may leave scars, and infection is likely to result from a scratch.

Blackheads and enlarged pores are traceable to improper skin cleansing and diet, so you must tackle your problem from within and without. It is most important that you adhere to a beauty diet (send 10c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me at this newspaper for my booklet, "Your Beauty Diet"). You must be as persistent about the internal care of your skin as its external pampering for all-time complexion loveliness.

Blackheads are more likely to appear in oily skins, but all skins need proper care, and cleansing rates at the top of the list. Each night, remove all traces of make-up as carefully as it was applied. With a cotton pad you may use a pore cleanser that will loosen and free oil and dirt particles (it is this gummy refuse that causes blackheads, pimples, and, in time, enlarged pores). Now, at least once a week, cover your face and neck with a pore pack or wash with grainy cleanser, both available at cosmetic counters. After rinsing, smooth a little astringent (antiseptic) on oily skin, or skin oil into dry or normal skins.

Tomorrow — Elegance in hair styles.

State School Officials End County Visit

Dr. James E. Spitznas, director of instruction, and Willis H. White, supervisor of high schools for the State Department of Education, will conclude their two-day visit to Allegany County by visiting Beall High School in Frostburg today.

Yesterday the visitors, accompanied by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools, inspected the old and new Bruce High Schools in Westernport and Valley High School in Lonaconing.

At Valley High School Dr. Spitznas took time out from his regular duties to call on his nephew, James W. Spitznas of Frostburg, who is now teaching history and problems of democracy there. He was transferred from Beall Elementary School, where he was a seventh grade teacher.

The group also stopped at Ocean where they visited Ocean Mine No. 1, said to be the oldest mine in the United States still in operation. That mine has been yielding coal for 110 years.

Today Dr. Spitznas and White will be accompanied on a visit to Beall High School by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster. Dr. Spitznas is a native of Allegany County who formerly was principal of Beall and Allegany high schools.

He said the county could count on a new bridge at Brownsville and improvements at Summit Hill outside Uniontown, now in the planning stages.

Thomas Bundy, secretary of the Uniontown Chamber of Commerce, told Farley that an employee of the Highways Department had "inferred that if we pressed this U.S. 40-interstate business we might not get the Brownsville bridge."

"I feel certain that was done without the authority of Secretary Joseph J. Lawler," Farley said. "The secretary makes department policy and no one can change or establish it."

Raw Water Sought By Bloomington

The Bloomington Water Company is seeking to purchase raw water from the Town of Westernport for some 68 users in that community.

William Bevers, water company official, recently conferred with Mayor Okey E. Michael of Westernport, and is seeking water for the residents.

Bevers said that a chlorinator would be installed in Bloomington to purify the water.

During a meeting of the Mayor and Council last night in Westernport, Michael said that Bevers had asked that an agreement be drawn up and presented to the company.

When the filtration plant at Westernport goes into operation the chlorination plant located near the Savage River Dam will be done away with, leaving Bloomington users with raw water.

Some time ago the Mayor and Council of Westernport informed Bloomington users that the town would not be responsible for sickness contracted from using the raw water.

Some 18 other water users in the Bloomington area who have been getting water through the chlorinator near the dam site will be left with raw water when the changeover takes place and are not included in the water company chlorinator plan.

Firemen Check Two Local Calls

Firemen from South End station answered two calls yesterday when fires occurred at homes located next door to each other.

About 9:50 a. m. yesterday firemen went to 230 New Hampshire Avenue, where an overheated stove pipe had ignited the wall covering around the flue in the living room. The firemen saturated the scorched area with a pan of water and a rag.

In the other call which occurred at 3:39 p. m. the company went to 222 New Hampshire Avenue and checked a flue fire. Occupants of the residence had built a wood fire

U. S. Position On Suez So Far

The dramatically couched declaration of Secretary of State Dulles that the United States does "not intend to shoot our way through" the Suez Canal is essentially only a restatement of the position the U. S. has taken since President Nasser "nationalized" the canal on July 26.

Dulles and the State Department have tried to be firm with Nasser, the former fathering the idea of a canal users association, but they have not answered his vituperation in kind. The U. S. government on July 19, five days before the canal action, withdrew its offer of $56 million for the Aswan High Dam. Nasser's reaction, July 24, was "I look at Americans and say: May you choke to death on your fury!"

On July 27, the day after Nasser's nationalization speech at Alexandria, the U. S. State Department said we were "consulting urgently" with other nations on the "far-reaching implications" of the seizure. A day later the department formally protested against the "many intemperate, inaccurate, and misleading statements" about the U. S. by Nasser, "particularly in his Alexandria speech."

The secretary said Nasser's ambition was "to extend his influence from the Atlantic to the Persian Gulf." But he said that "some people" who "counseled immediate forceable action" were advocating a policy which "would have been contrary to the principles of the United Nations Charter and would undoubtedly have led to widespread violence endangering the peace of the world."

President Eisenhower himself went on record, August 8, that he could not "conceive of military force being a good solution" to the Suez problem. "We have tried to substitute the conference table for the battlefield," the President said.

Even after Nasser's rejection of the London plan the President on September 12 declared: "I am not going to be a party to aggression if it is humanly possible." But if Egypt were aggressive against the "peaceful use of the canal . . . we would recognize that Britain and France had no other recourse than to continue to use it even if they had to be more forceful than merely sailing through it."

The Engineering Shortage

As the military complain that they are short of engineers, the hospitals complain that they are short of nurses and the schools complain that they are short of teachers. We are more than 166,000,000 persons and we have a comparatively larger high school and college attendance than most countries; nevertheless, we are short of those possessing technical skills and intellectual disciplines.

General S. D. Sturgis Jr., chief of Engineers, takes me to task for deploring "the increasing emphasis for augmenting the output of engineers and scientists as against graduates in the field of liberal and fine arts." The sentence is his, but it is a correct statement of my views on the subject. However what I deplore is not so much the emphasis upon engineers and physical scientists as the lack of cultural development and intellectual attainments among university graduates who are so trapped by specialties, their majors, that they are graduated into a trade rather than into a civilization.

In our society the quest is not for the satisfaction of learning, but for larger compensation and greater access to material comforts to which we have given the name, the High Standard of Living. If the possession of more than one automobile per family or the latest model refrigerator or electric razor is the sole or even best measure of the High Standard of Living, then we are all right and there is nothing to worry about and our sons and daughters can go on majoring in their colleges, coming out with a modicum of knowledge in one minuscule field of knowledge in which they can start their careers at $5,000 a year.

But what else do they know? And here is the rub because no society has yet been cultivated by engineers and physical scientists who, while they know how to build a bridge and turn the course of a river, have not discovered how to keep homes from being broken, governments from growing into tyrannies, youngsters from substituting fun for an orderly way of life.

Such moralists as Moses or Confucius or Cicero or Maimonides or Thomas Aquinas were neither engineers nor physical scientists. Great civilizations have been watered by beautiful thoughts in what General Sturgis, speaking for another generation, calls "the field of liberal and fine arts," but which currently, as a revolt against the majoring system, is called "The Humanities," or "Contemporary Civilization," the latter being an attempt to jam into a small physical compass excerpts from the sum total of human knowledge.

General Sturgis says "The sinister shortage of engineers and scientists in the armed forces only reflects the ever-worsening situation in the civil economy," which is undoubtedly true, but we are in trouble in many fields and they are all important for our society.

For instance, it is important in a free society that teachers, clergymen, editors, commentators and others who influence public opinion possess sufficient knowledge of philosophy, history and economics so that they can view critically the propaganda issued by governmental and private agencies throughout the world, designed to encourage free men to become dependent upon government and upon those who gain control of government.

Such a critical capacity can only be cultivated by what, in another period, was called learning, namely, a thorough reading of history and literature, universal in aspect.

Albert Einstein, in his later years, recognized this truth. In his essay on "Education," he said: ". . . I have said nothing yet about the choice of subjects for instruction, nor about the method of teaching. Should language predominate or technical education in science?"

"To this I answer: In my opinion all this is of secondary importance. If a young man has trained his muscles and physical endurance by gymnastics and walking, he will later be fitted for every physical work. This is also analogous to the training of the mind and the exercising of the mental and manual skill . . . For this reason I am not at all anxious to take sides in the struggle between the followers of the classical philologic-historical education and the education more devoted to natural science."

And in this essay appears this:

" . . . The school should always have as its aim that the young man leave it as a harmonious personality, not as a specialist. This in my opinion is true in a certain sense even for technical schools, whose students will devote themselves to a quite definite profession . . ."

Difficult—This Keeping The Peace

Adlai Breaks With Leaders Over Anti-Communism

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Adlai Stevenson has broken with the Democratic party leadership on the anti-Communist issue. The Democratic presidential nominee has repudiated the position taken, respectively, by the Democratic chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Democratic chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security, who have recommended legislation to get rid of all "security risks" in the government.

This means that Mr. Stevenson no longer feels concerned about the charge that the Democratic administration was "soft on communism," which was one of the principal accusations made by General Eisenhower in the 1952 campaign.

Flatly Opposed

Mr. Stevenson has come out flatly against proposed legislation — endorsed by the Eisenhower administration — which would permit the federal government to throw out Communists or "security risks" from all agencies or departments, whether or not such positions have been specifically designated as "sensitive." His policy stems from the fact that a majority of the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States found a flaw in the present statute because, it was argued, Congress intended a distinction between "sensitive" and "non-sensitive" agencies. But the Democratic leadership in the two committees above-mentioned moved promptly to remedy the defect so as to give a President of the United States the right and the power in his discretion to determine which agencies are "sensitive" and to order "security risks" fired from any place in the government where they are found. Many Democrats insisted this was the original intent of Congress, anyhow.

Various bills to correct the situation were introduced by Democrats at the last session of Congress but failed of passage in the last days of legislative congestion.

What the Stevenson position means is that Communists and

"security risks" could work in certain places in the government, so far as he is concerned, without being subjected to dismissal.

Makes Espionage Easier

The question of whether a man is or is not a Communist cannot be determined merely by his statement or affidavit when he signs his application papers. So a "security risk" investigation is essential. If, however, this type of procedure is to be forbidden with respect to employees who work in so-called "non-sensitive" agencies, then espionage by Communist rings is made easier.

It will be recalled that, according to the sworn testimony of witnesses, Alger Hiss was a member of a Communist cell when he worked in the Agriculture Department. He could not have been investigated as a "security risk" today if he were an employee of the Agriculture Department because this is a "non-sensitive" agency. Many naive persons, including various lawyers who worked on a bar association report that came out recently in New York, are convinced that it isn't necessary to do a "security risk" investigation among employees of non-sensitive agencies, and that's where Adlai Stevenson gets his encouragement.

But a glance at the records of espionage in America shows that the use of government stationery or telephones from government desks, and free movement inside the government of seemingly unimportant employees is a vast help to the Communist apparatus. On this point, Justices Reed, Minton and Clark of the Supreme Court of the United States said:

"It is not realistic to say that the government can be protected by applying the act to sensitive

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Question before the committee is — is civilization marking time when it's rocking on its heels?

Since 1914 Winston Churchill has insisted the future of the world was stacked on America. That opinion is sub-divided by the Democrats and Republicans who claim more responsibility than the fellow who locks up the zoo at night.

Right now the two-party system is like the big fire trucks. The man on the rear doesn't have much to say about where it's going. But he can sure swing it wide on the curves.

It's just about six weeks until the boomers come home to roost. We sure shuck a hill of oysters just to get one pearl.

We don't much like the way both sides have stressed the atomic future. Did they have the war dummy of a second-class postmaster at Yucca Flats?

If the Democrats can grab Congress they can swing it wide on the curves. But the White House can handle the Senate and Representative pretty much like keeping your goldfish in two bowls.

Just about anybody who has belonged to and doesn't repent his membership in the Communist party or who refuses to assist his own government in running down subversives should be paid by American taxpayers and given the privilege of a job in the United States government is something the Democratic presidential nominee will have to explain to the voters—for they are the ones who pay the taxes.

No matter which side you're going to vote for you've still got six weeks to listen to reason.

Tragedy Of Jordan River TVA Canal: Lebanon, Syria, Jordan Can't Agree

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson, with this column, continues his dispatches from the Near East. Others will follow.)

THE SYRIAN-ISRAELI BORDER—Two Syrian border guards stood silhouetted against the sky on the hill just beyond us. They looked down, across the ravine where the Jordan River came tumbling down from Syria across Israel and on toward the Sea of Galilee.

It had been tumbling down that ravine since David crossed it to escape the attack of his son Absalom, since Jacob's daughter looked for her brother Joseph when his brothers sold him into slavery in Egypt, and since John the Baptist immersed his converts in its restless waters.

Oblivious apparently to the part it had played in history, the River Jordan paid no attention to the two Syrian guards on the hill-top, nor to our own group which listened to Dr. Paul Doron, chief irrigation engineer for the Jordan Valley project, tell of his plans to harness the turbulent river below.

That was why the two Syrian sentries were suspicious. On previous occasions they have shot at Israeli engineers as they pushed work on a half-mile canal connecting a 90-mile irrigation ditch with the Jordan.

The sentries did not fire this time, however, perhaps because two jeeps of Israeli troops were with us; or perhaps because Israel has now stopped work on the connecting link of the Jordan canal in deference to a request from the United Nations. Alongside us was rusting machinery, mute testimony that work on this end of the canal had stopped.

Israel's Pressure-Cooker

Work on the rest of the 90-mile stretch of canal and concrete pipe, however, has not stopped. It extends down, all the way through Galilee, through Judea and the Sharon to the deserts of the Negev, over which I drove en route to the Dead Sea. There, water carried from the Syrian border in the north almost to the Egyptian border in the south should make the desert bloom like a rose.

The reason the rest of the Jordan River project is being pushed is because of the intense pressure on the Israeli government to feed its present population and take in more population to fulfill the centuries-old dream of a national Jewish home.

"Israel is not a melting pot, it's a pressure-cooker," explained Jacob Herzog, son of the chief rabbi of Israel. "We have absorbed all the Jews of Iraq, 60,000 Jews from Yemen, 350,000 Jews from the Arab countries. We have 70 nationalities to absorb, and there are more to come. We have to support them and feed them if we are to fulfill our pledge to mankind."

To feed them requires crops; and crops require water; and water requires irrigation. That is the reason for the two suspicious Syrian sentries who watched us from across the Jordan.

Arab Hatred

The tragedy is that the so-called TVA for the Jordan valley would benefit the Arab countries of Lebanon, Syria and Jordan just as much as it would benefit Israel. But, despite the patient, painstaking diplomacy of Eric Johnston, the Arab countries have not agreed.

They have not agreed chiefly because they don't want to help Israel. They would rather hurt than help themselves, and therein lies the biggest roadblock in the path of peace for the Near East.

Most people don't realize it but there are 180,000 Arabs living in Israel. This is about the same proportion as the Negro population in the U. S. A. This does not include the Arab refugees who live outside Israel, but the Arab population which did not escape and chose to take a chance on getting along with the Jews.

One of the largest of these Arab settlements is in the ancient city of Acre, which the Crusaders conquered in their long campaign to take Jerusalem from the Moslems, but which Napoleon did not conquer in his quest to turn the Mediterranean into a French lake.

The kadi of Acre is Sheikh Moussa Tabori, a tall, handsome Moslem, whom I interviewed in his office next to the Mosque of Yassar Pasha.

"I am intrusted with presiding over the Moslem courts," the kadi explained. "Since the Arab population has different marriage and divorce laws, the Israeli government has given us separate courts for these domestic matters."

"What are the relations between the Arabs and the Jews?" I asked.

"Excellent; we get along very well together," was the reply. "We have complete freedom of worship and we also have Moslem schools. They are operated by the Israeli government, of course, but in them, the children study Arabic, Hebrew and English."

Outside and across the courtyard came the chant of the Moslem Hodja calling the Arabs of Acre to the Mosque for prayer. A row of shoes outside the Mosque showed how many had responded.

Jewish-Arab Partners

Down at the waterfront I talked to Abdul Karim El Saadi, an Arab fisherman, and his partner, Shaul Krasnasky, a Jew. Together they operate a fleet of small fishing boats off the Israeli-Lebanon coast.

"Sixty per cent of our fishermen are Arabs, 40 per cent are Jews," explained Abdul. "Some of the Arabs escaped to Lebanon during the war of 1948, but when they saw that Arabs were not mistreated here, they came back."

Abdul has two wives, nine sons and two daughters, and was interested in the fishing prowess of President Eisenhower, though he was envious of reports that the American President had truckloads of trout dumped into mountain streams just before he fished.

Those are the amicable relations between Jews and Arabs inside Israel. There are seven Arabs elected to the Israeli Parliament in Jerusalem, which is three times as many Jews as there are in the U. S. Senate. But most of the Arabs live outside Israel, and it's the Arabs in neighboring Jordan, Lebanon and Syria, and above all Egypt, who must be converted to living in peace with Israel.

So far that is a long way from accomplishment; and that is the greatest problem of Israel.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Of the 20 questions most asked this department, that concerning the possibility of achieving success as an inventor, rates a high spot on the list. So many things are currently patentable that anybody with an original mind has a chance of hitting the financial jackpot with a new and useful idea. I say "useful" because an idea must answer that description to be patentable. One of the greatest money making machines of all time was not patentable because it was not considered "useful." I am referring to that gambling slot machine popularity known as the "one arm bandit."

GETTING STARTED

What do people have difficulty in doing? What can be done faster than it is at present? What that makes people uncomfortable could be made comfortable? What could be originated that would aid in weight reduction? What could be figured out that will aid in appearance improvement? These are the type of questions the aspiring inventor should ask himself and try to answer with a patentable idea.

BEGINNINGS

Consider the case of J. Murray Spangler, inventor of the vacuum cleaner. He was a janitor in a Canton, Ohio, department store. He suffered from asthma. The dust blown about when he was sweeping up aggravated his asthma. He began to try to figure out a way of improving this situation. The result was the vacuum cleaner, originally called a "suction sweeper." That was invented in 1908. It was financed by Spangler's friend, W. H. Hoover.

INSPIRATIONS

You probably know the story of how Ole Evirud happened to invent the outboard motor. He grew weary of rowing his girl around the lake on Sundays and began to figure out a way of having a boat propelled without labor and sweat. A man named Solomon noting some difficulty his wife was having with her hair invented the type of hairpin known as the "bobby pin." A man who found it difficult to maintain his balance in a street car invented the strap-hanger to make life easier for riders. As you can imagine, he made plenty from that idea. Then there was David Curtin of St. Paul, Minn., a traveling salesman who disliked drinking from unwashed glasses used by other people. So he invented the paper cup. For many years Curtin enjoyed an annual income of $100,000 and over from that invention.

PLEASE NOTE

What is your favorite sport? What are your difficulties in playing it? Can you think of an idea that would make it easier for you to get a better average or score? A baseball bat can be patented. An example is that celebrated bat known as the "Louisville Slugger." Improvements to a billiard cue can be patented. Same goes for golf clubs. And so on.

PATENTS

The inscription upon the entrance of the United States Patent Office in Washington, D. C., reads: "The patent system added the fuel of interest to the fire of genius — Lincoln." To get a patent, secure the aid of an expert. That is, a reliable patent attorney. Only a man who knows the field is really capable of handling the highly involved procedure necessary to obtain a patent. The files of the patent office are extremely intricate. Incidentally, it is interesting to note that a request has been issued for some inventor to invent a new filing system for the Patent Office.

REFERENCE

There are a number of books of helpful hints for aspiring inventors. Among the best are "Money from Ideas" by M. Penn Laughlin. "The Inventor's Handbook" by Fred Roth and "How To Find a Buyer for Your Invention" by V. D. Angerman. All aspiring inventors should learn how to make use of the public library. At your public library you will find many books on inventing that can be of much assistance.

GREAT INVENTORS

You know, of course, who invented the phonograph, the air brake, the machine gun and the Linotype machine. But do you know who invented cellophane? It was J. E. Brandenberger in 1912. How about the invention of food preservation hermetically sealed? That is, canned food. Francois Appert invented that in 1804. He did it to win a prize offered by Napoleon Bonaparte for a method preserving food for an army on the march.

The news from Norfolk is that enlisted men are showing a new respect for their officers, regardless of their sex. A sailor retrieved a handkerchief dropped by a trim Wave lieutenant, and handed it to her with a heartfelt, "I think you dropped this, toots, sir."

A BUSY ORGAN

C. V. writes: Is the pancreas part of the digestive tract?

REPLY

Yes, the pancreas secretes a digestive juice that contains enzymes which break down starches, sugars, and fats. The organ also is classified as a gland of internal secretion because it manufactures insulin, the hormone that aids in carbohydrate metabolism.

STOMACH VALVE SPASM

S. D. writes: What are the symptoms of a cardiac spasm?

REPLY

The heart does not go into spasm and I assume you mean spasm of the cardiac valve of the stomach. Distress resembles heartburn and swallowing may be affected because it is difficult for food to pass through the narrowed opening of the stomach.

HIGH DIVING

W. A. writes: Would diving from a height of 15 feet have any harmful effect on the body?

REPLY

Not of the person dives properly. On the other hand, the sinuses and ears may suffer from any type of underwater maneuver.

STARING EXPRESSION

Mrs. B. writes: Can anything be done about sterness?

REPLY

This disturbance is difficult to eliminate because most of the causes are neurological in origin. In older persons, parkinsonism is one of the most common origins of a staring expression.

Tri-Towns UO Needs Budget Of Over $1,000

Group Makes Plans For Fall, Winter

WESTERNPORT — The cost of carrying out the fall and winter program of the United Organizations will be approximately $1,000, Wayne Ritchie, chairman stated at a meeting held Monday evening at the Westernport Library.

This sum will include Christmas baskets for the needy and annual Christmas parties for children of the Tri-Towns area.

The meeting was called to acquaint organizations, and church and civic groups of the program of the UO and to discuss plans for carrying out the program as it successfully operated in the past.

In about a month or so a house-to-house solicitation for food and clothing in the Tri-Towns will be conducted to replenish the storehouse on Second Street, Piedmont.

Ritchie stated there would be a call for children's shoes and clothing as the winter months approach. He related some of the experiences in carrying out the work for the underprivileged. Some of the conditions found, he said, are hard to believe.

There are many elderly people of the community who would like to attend church who are unable to walk and cannot afford to pay for someone to take them to church and return home, he observed.

It was decided that the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association be contacted with the suggestion that a survey be made by the churches to determine the number of people who would like to attend religious services but are unable to do so and that free transportation be secured for them.

The group plans to operate the Salvation Army kettles here before the holiday season. Although the SA takes all the money placed in them they put more back into the community in financial help than they get from the kettles, it was explained.

It was suggested by Ritchie that Captain Daniel Biggs, Cumberland, of the Salvation Army, be invited by some organization to give a talk about his work.

Newcombe Bags 25th As Brooklyn Crushes Cards, 17-2

Dodger Star Also Clouts Two Homers

Loop Leaders Get 17 Blows; Demeter Homers in Debut

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN, Sept. 19 (AP)—Don Newcombe became a Brooklyn's first 25-game winner in 32 years and the Dodgers rolled up their highest run total of the year to overwhelm the St. Louis Cardinals 17-2 today and grasp a half game lead over Milwaukee. The Braves met the Pirates in Pittsburgh tonight.

The big righthander, whose only defeat in his last 17 decisions since July 4 was a 1-0 loss to Johnny Antonelli and the New York Giants, was a one-man gang as the Dodgers clubbed five Redbird hurlers for 17 hits, including four home runs and four doubles.

Newcombe hurled only seven innings before Manager Walter Alston wisely decided to rest his ace pitcher for the tough grind ahead. Before Don left, however, he had almost stifled the Cards with seven hits but he had taken charge at the plate as well, clouting a pair of home runs and a single to drive in three runs. In addition, he stole a base and executed a fine defensive play.

Home runs accounted for both Cardinal runs. Alvin Dark reached the left field seats in the first inning and Stan Musial smashed his 26th of the year over the right field screen in the sixth.

Brooklyn scored in five of the first six innings, knocking out starter Tom Poholsky in the third, then shelling Lindy McDaniel and Willard Schmidt with an eight-run assault in the fifth that represented its largest scoring inning of the season.

Don Bessent finished up for Newcombe.

The loss was charged to Poholsky, his 13th against nine victories. The Red Bird righthander, who has lost five of six decisions to Brooklyn this year, never has won at Ebbets Field, losing all 10 decisions. Newk, on the other hand, has an eight-game winning streak against St. Louis and has not been beaten by the Cards since Aug. 21, 1951.

Duke Snider celebrated his 30th birthday with his most productive day in many weeks. He cracked four singles, drove in three runs and scored twice. Randy Jackson, replacing Jackie Robinson at third in the sixth inning, knocked in four runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly.

Besides Newcombe's pair, Sandy Amoros and rookie Don Demeter hit homers for the Dodgers. It was Demeter's first major league homer, in his second time at bat in the big leagues.

Potomac Valley Old Germans Eliminate Outdoor Club, 4-3

Play Melody Manor Today; Brelsford Notches 26th Win

Manager James (Jimmy) Allen's Potomac Valley Old Germans, champions of the County League, forged to the finals of the Western Maryland Softball Tournament yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by eliminating the Outdoor Club, champions of the Rocking Chair League, by the score of 4-3.

A two-run rally in the top of the 7th frame enabled the Old Germans to come from behind and win the game.

Trailing 2-2 going into the 7th inning, pitcher Junior Brelsford started the Potomac Valley rally by drawing a base on balls. Gene Basilio singled Brelsford to third and the batter took second on the throw-in. "Ref" Moreland's infield out sent Brelsford over the platter with the tying run. Then Frank Scarpelli bunted and squeezed over Basilio with what proved to be the winning marker.

Two Clout Homers

Gene Basilio's walk and Frank Scarpelli's home run belt over the centerfielder's head gave Potomac Valley a 2-0 lead in the opening frame. The Outdoor Club came back with one run in its half of the first inning when Ted Durbin and "Pete" Elliott walked, both advanced a base on a wild pitch and Durbin came home after Sam Brady's sacrifice fly to right field. The Rocking Chair champs took the lead by scoring twice in the fifth after two out. Durbin singled, took second on a throwing error by the catcher and scored ahead of Elliott who socked a home run to give the O.D.C. a 3-2 edge.

It was the third straight for Potomac Valley in the tourney and also the third triumph for Junior Brelsford, the Old Germans' ace, who yielded five hits, fanned six and issued two bases on balls, both coming in the first inning. Brelsford's record this season is 26 wins and three defeats. Potomac Valley has beaten Celanese 10-0, Corriganville, 5-0, and the Outdoor Club in the tourney.

The Outdoor Club had eliminated Lytle's Sign Shop, 21-10 and the Tri-Towns Merchants, 6-2, before being ushered out yesterday. Brelsford accounted for two of the winners' five hits yielded by Floyd "Pete" Elliott, who gave up six passes and struck out one. Elliott led the O.D.C. at the plate with a homer and single.

Title Game Today

Melody Manor, also of the County League, will battle Potomac Valley today at 7 p. m., at Penn Avenue Field in the championship game. Yesterday's score:

POTOMAC VALLEY .. 200 000 2-4 5 2
OUTDOOR CLUB .. 100 020 0-3 5 0
Brelsford and Hanna, Elliott and Brady.

Frank Lary Wins 19th

Detroit Wallops Baltimore, 9-1

DETROIT, Sept. 19 (AP)—Al Kaline hit his 26th home run and three singles and right hander Frank Lary won his 19th game today as the Detroit Tigers thrashed the Baltimore Orioles, 9-1, in 50-degree weather.

The smallest Briggs Stadium crowd of the year, 1,435, boosted Tiger home attendance over the million mark for the 11th time in 12 seasons. The Tigers now have drawn 1,000,578.

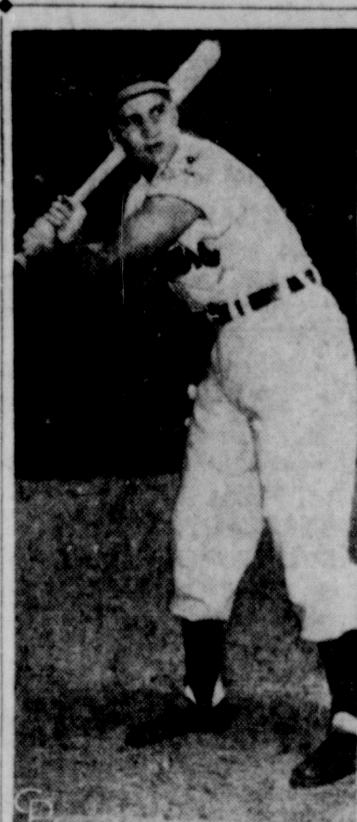

In whipping the Orioles, Lary made it at least one victory over each club in the American League. This was his sixth consecutive triumph and his 14th in his last 18 starts.

Ray Boone also homered for the Tigers with a man aboard in the fourth. It was his 23rd.

Baltimore used six pitchers with starter Skinny Brown taking his sixth defeat against nine victories.

Lesser, Smith, Romack Beaten In Tournament

Lenczyk Also Loses In National Amateur

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 19 (AP)—The American and the British women's golf champions and the girl who has come closest to winning both of the titles in recent years were tumbled out of the 56th women's National Amateur golf championship today by a pair of Pacific Northwest teen-agers and a greying ex-professional.

First, tall sunburned Joanne Gunderson of Kirkland, Wash., the National Junior girls' champion, crushed defending Champion Pat Lesser, her Seattle clubmate, 5 and 4.

Wiffi Smith Lr

Then, with Pat in the gallery rooting for her, British Women's Champion Margaret (Wiffi) Smith of St. Clair, Mich., three-putted the 19th green and lost to Mrs. Ann Casey Johnston of Mason City, Iowa.

And on the same 19th hole, Anne Quast of Everett, Wash., who had just passed her 19th birthday made a beautiful chip shot that eliminated Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., who won the American championship in 1954 and went to the finals of the British the next spring.

Lenczyk Eliminated

Also missing tomorrow when the tournament goes into its first double round will be Grace Lenczyk, the 1948 U.S. champion from Newington, Conn., and Tam O'Shanter "world" amateur Champion Anne Richardson of Columbus, Ohio. One ex-champion, 1951 winner Dot Kirby of Atlanta, survived the upset splurge, as did Canadian Champion Marlene Stewart.

Miss Lenczyk was the 5 and 4 victim of Mrs. William Hartson of San Francisco in a match that hardly was rated as an upset. But it was a big surprise when 20-year-old Miss Richardson bogied the last two holes and Mrs. John Pennington, a Buffalo veteran who is a member of the USGA women's committee, won 1 up.

Today's Pairings

Tomorrow, in the first of two 18-hole rounds that will bring the field down to the semi-final stage, Miss Gunderson will play Mrs. Philip Cudone of Montclair, N. J., a member of the 1956 Curtis Cup team.

Mrs. Cudone eliminated Judy Frank, Metropolitan New York champion, 2 and 1.

Lane Gets Nod Over Lightburn

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 19 (AP)—Kenny Lane, 24-year-old switch hitter from Muskegon, Mich., ran his winning streak to nine fights tonight as he bested Ludwig Lightburn from British Honduras in a fast 10-round bout launching Miami's new Biscayne Arena.

Lane, the sixth ranking contender for the lightweight title, bothered Lightburn with his southpaw lead and befuddled him at times by going into a straightaway stance and shooting out with either hand.

His blows weren't damaging but they piled up enough points to give him a unanimous decision.

Million Dollar Race

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—The Garden State, world's richest horse race is close to the one million dollar mark. It will have its fourth running at Garden State Park on Oct. 27. The first three runnings totaled $821,730. This year's event is expected to gross almost $290,000.

Terp Grid Star Asks Deferment

Tamburello Confers With Gen. Hershey

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 19 (AP)—Maryland quarterback Frank Tamburello appealed to Selective Service officials in Washington again today to defer him from the draft.

Tamburello, now under orders to report for induction at Baltimore on Oct. 1, said later he would not play in the Terrapins' football opener against Syracuse this Saturday unless he is deferred.

Just entering a game this season would bar Tamburello from playing again once he got out of the service. And Tamburello said he would rather save his year's eligibility if the draft call issued by a Maryland state review board yesterday is allowed to stand.

Coach Tommy Mont declared he was using no persuasion either way on the senior quarterback, but there was every indication Mont was omitting Tamburello from his plans for the game with Syracuse.

John Fritsch, a junior from Carnegie, Pa., who handled the ball on only 10 plays last year, appeared the likely starter in Tamburello's place.

Tamburello did not work out at practice today. Mont concentrated on working his squads with quarterbacks Fritsch, Bob Rusevyan and Fred Petrella in the first, second and third teams in that order.

Tamburello visited the office of Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, this morning in hopes of getting his case before a presidential review board. This afternoon, the Selective Service headquarters in Washington said it had not yet received the file on the case but would let Tamburello know its decision as soon as possible.

Giants Defeat Chicago Twice

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—The seventh place New York Giants handed the cellar dwelling Chicago Cubs a double defeat today, 7-2 and 3-2, before a crowd of 1,193, smallest of the year at the Polo Grounds.

Joe Margoneri went all the way in the opener to pick up his sixth victory. The Giants were out-hit 10-6, but the Cubs made six errors.

The Giants took the nightcap in the sixth when Dave Hillman gave a hit and two walks to fill the bases and reliever Turk Lown then walked across both the tying and winning runs.

Frank Kellert hit a two-run homer in the nightcap second for the Cubs. It was the only homer in the twinbill.

RACE OFFICIAL — J. Melvin Mackin, of Havre de Grace, Md., who serves as assistant racing secretary at Hialeah Park, Fla., Laurel and Pimlico, Md., and placing judge at the state's half mile tracks is at Fairgo for the first time. He is one of the judges here. Mackin formerly served as assistant secretary at Detroit and has been a placing judge at Narragansett Park in New England. Melvin has been associated with racing since 1932. The fact that Cumberland dates conflicted with those at other tracks where Mackin was employed kept him from making his debut here in recent years.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
ANYDLBAAXR
IS LONGFELLOW
One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:
North 1 diamond Pass South 1 heart Pass West 1 spade Pass East 1 spade Pass
2 hearts Pass 3 hearts Pass 4 hearts Pass 5 hearts Pass
Opening lead: Ace of spades.
Doug Drury and Eric Murray of Toronto, who had won the national men's pair championship in 1954 and 1955, failed to come through in their favorite event this year, but they made it clear that they had no intention of relinquishing their hold on American titles.

Forming an alliance with Mary Bowden of Toronto, and Agnes Gordon and Robert Freedman of Buffalo, they drove to a stirring photo finish victory in the mixed team championship triumphing over a star studded field in the four session event at the national tournament recently concluded in New York City.

Nature provided plenty of fireworks for the boys and girls in this event, and afforded many opportunities for resourceful bidding. The hand shown today was submitted by my friend and frequent teammate, Peter Leventritt, who in this event, was paired with Ruth Sherman. It demonstrates again what extraordinary results may be attained with comparatively mediocre holdings when partner has taken great pains to paint an accurate picture of his holdings.

Miss Sherman, sitting North, opened with one diamond and Leventritt, South, naturally responded with one heart. West's non-vulnerable overall of one spade was normal and at this point Miss Sherman made the key call of the auction, namely, two spades. The cue bid involves some poetic license inasmuch as she has only second round control of the suit, but it is wise to establish at once that this is a game going hand with slam possibilities and a jump in hearts might make it difficult for South to proceed with assurance. South temporized with three clubs and when Miss Sherman showed the heart support Leventritt did not think it was sufficient to bid four hearts. His heart suit might not have been as good as K-Q so he bid five hearts. It was now a simple matter for North to go on to six hearts which it will be seen proved to be a lay-down.

Observe that a contract of six no trump which was tried at some tables was doomed to a two trick set when diamonds failed to break. (Copyright 1956: The Chicago Tribune)

2 States Continue Highway Campaign

Pa. Sees Little Chance For Aid From Government

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 19.—The Highways Department today assured a Fayette County group that it is "going to get some improvements on U.S. 40."

Robert Farley, acting chief engineer, told a 12-man delegation that the highways department is now making a "complete study of U.S. 40" and that it "hopes very shortly to take positive action."

The delegation met with Farley to press for state support to include 135 miles of the highway between Hancock, Md., and Washington, Pa., on the federal 90-10 interstate highway system.

Nobody Knows

Farley indicated there was little chance of such action but added: "There is always a possibility. I don't know if it can be included and I don't think anyone else knows."

Stewart G. Neal, executive vice president of the Fayette County Development Council, asked why this was the only stretch of the 2,600-mile road from Atlantic City to Denver that is not on the interstate system.

Farley replied that the decision was made many years ago and then read from a bulletin of the U.S. Public Roads Bureau which states that the government has no intention of building interstate roads parallel to existing toll roads which will adequately meet the traffic needs of 1957.

Route Not Included

The Hancock-Washington stretch of U.S. 40 is roughly 30 miles south of the general location of the Pennsylvania Turnpike and is not included in the general location map approved in 1947 for the interstate system.

Officials of Pennsylvania and Maryland have discussed the problem in the last month. Robert O. Bonnell, chairman of the Maryland Roads Commission, has taken the position it "makes no sense" to exclude the 135-mile stretch from the interstate system.

Pennsylvania officials have been against such action. Farley said there has been no disagreement between officials of the two states, adding:

"From the information I have the conference was amicable and we are resolving our differences."

Neal based the delegation's request on the fact that "we are already economically distressed."

"We are trying to rebuild our economy and taking away traffic from U.S. 40 will make it a lot harder to rebuild. Unless some major road building is done our economy isn't going to improve because of the roads," he said.

"The highways department will do everything possible to alleviate that situation," Farley replied.

Registration Is Heavy

September has been a busy month for voter registration at the office of the Allegheny County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House basement, where some 216 prospective new voters have registered through Tuesday.

Some 10 new voters signed up yesterday at Piney Plains and Flintstone as Miss Bessie M. Baird, deputy Republican registrar, and John J. Zapf, deputy Democrat registrar, began their tour of the county. Eight were Republicans and only two Democrats.

The Piney Plains registrants yesterday afternoon included one man and one woman, both Republicans. At Flintstone, three men and three women registered as Republicans and two men signed up as Democrats.

The new Court House registrants are almost evenly divided between the two major parties. There are 107 new Republicans (47 men and 60 women), 104 new Democrats (66 men and 38 women) and five independents (two men and three women).

As of September 1 there were 33,545 registered voters in Allegheny County. They included 21,791 Republicans, 16,501 Democrats, 237 independents, 14 Socialists and two members of other parties.

Those who wish to register so they can vote in the impending election have only until Saturday, October 6, in which to register. The office at the Court House is open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

Today the touring registrars will sit at Oldtown and North Branch. They will be at the Oldtown School from 1 until 4 p.m., and at the North Branch Fire Hall from 9 until 9 p.m. Tomorrow they will be at the Devon Club library in Luke from 1 until 4 p.m., and at the McCool Fire Hall from 6 until 9 p.m.

U. S. Roads Unit Promises Study Of Rt. 40 Plan

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has received a letter from the Bureau of Public Roads stating that careful consideration will be given to including Route 40 from Hancock to Washington, Pa., in the Federal Interstate Highway System.

The Chamber had written to the Department of Commerce bureau for information concerning the federal aid program which bypassed Route 40 through the Queen City.

Road Began Here

The Cumberland request pointed out that Route 40 had its beginning here and that the Chamber felt the oversight should be corrected.

The letter to the Chamber from Joseph Barnett, assistant deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Public Roads, said:

"Routes of the 40,000-mile Interstate System authorized in the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1944 were approved by the Bureau of Public Roads in 1947 after consideration of recommendations by the state highway departments cooperating with the departments of adjoining states relative to connections at state lines and after consultations with the Department of Defense."

Eligible For Aid

"The general location of U. S. 40 west of Hancock was not included but it is retained on the federal-aid primary system eligible for improvement with federal-aid funds."

"The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 increased the statutory limit from 40,000 to 41,000 miles. To accomplish the 1,000-mile expansion we recently asked the states to forward their tentative selections for additions integrated with the presently designated system following procedures and using criteria similar to those adopted for selection of the 40,000-mile system."

"All proposals for additions will be considered on a national basis as required by statute. You may be sure that any proposals by the Maryland and Pennsylvania state highway departments will receive our careful consideration."

Paw Paw Child Is Burned In Home Accident

A 16-month-old Paw Paw child was hospitalized here yesterday afternoon with first and second degree burns about the face and body sustained in an accident at his home.

Reported in "satisfactory" condition at Memorial Hospital is Lloyd Fredman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fredman. The child was reported to have pulled an electric coffee percolator over on himself and was burned about the face, neck, chest, abdomen and arms.

The accident occurred about 10 a. m. The child was rushed to a physician in Paw Paw for treatment, and later was taken to the local hospital.

Underwriters Meet Friday

The Cumberland Life Underwriters will hold their first fall meeting at central YMCA Friday at 12:15 p. m. when one-year and two-year training course certificates will be awarded.

B. G. Renz, manager of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, will give the awards for completion of the Life Underwriters Training Course for which D. E. Ritchie was instructor.

Receiving one-year certificates will be N. R. Keyser, Prudential Life Insurance agent, and N. F. Geatz Jr., Penn Mutual agent.

Two-year completion awards will be given to J. E. Cooper, J. V. Courtney, W. D. Ferrebee, R. E. Fike, H. L. Fuller, L. E. Geiger, J. R. Nader, and D. B. "Roudfoot," all agents for Prudential; E. E. Ours, agent for Peoples Life; H. L. Snyder and L. E. Bennett, both assistant managers for Peoples Life; E. D. Van Meter, assistant manager for Home Beneficial; W. C. Trast, agent for United; C. B. Taster, manager of Celanese Group Insurance department; and H. W. Hawkins, agent for Monumental Life Insurance Company.

Reforestation Listed In Soil Bank Program

Although she has not received details on the program, Miss Elizabeth A. Hoover, manager of the Allegheny County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee office, said yesterday that a 10-year reforestation plan is part of the long-range "soil bank" program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A farmer who wants some government assistance for taking certain land out of production to reforest it probably would first have to apply to Miss Hoover's office. The application probably would be referred to the office of District Forester William H. Johnson for his approval.

Some of the "soil bank" programs are for five years' duration but such activities as reforestation are prolonged to 10 or 15 years.

Eight County Schools Win State Approval

190 Nonpublic Institutions Listed

Eight Allegheny County institutions are included in the Maryland Nonpublic Academic Schools approved by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools, as of June 30.

A list of the 190 institutions in Baltimore City and 18 of the 23 Maryland counties has just been distributed by Dr. Pullen's office.

The Allegheny County institutions include three kindergartens and five high schools.

Kindergartens are Bre'r Rabbit Children's House, 829 Windsor Road, The Dingle; Hill Street School Kindergarten, Hill Street Elementary School, Frostburg, and Tri Towns Kindergarten, Grant Street Elementary School, Luke.

Section 20 of Article 77 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, 1951 Edition, requires that all nonpublic schools obtain the approval of the state superintendent of schools unless they operate under church auspices or under a state legislative charter, according to W. T. Boston, director of certification and accreditation.

In accordance with a regulation of the State Board of Education the word "schools" or "kindergarten" may not be used in reference to a day nursery or child care center which fails to meet the standards of a school of kindergarten, Boston added.

Habeas Corpus Writ Is Denied Jailed Man

A petition filed by Clarence T. Porter of Eckhart Mines for a writ of habeas corpus has been denied by Chief Judge George Henderson in Allegheny County Circuit Court. The man was jailed June 20 for contempt of court.

Porter, through his attorney, Howard Vogel of Washington, D. C., contended that Judge Henderson lacked authority to order the man to divide his bonds with his estranged wife. Judge Henderson said this argument was based on an old statute.

Judge Henderson also ruled that the Porters were legal residents of Allegheny County although they were residing temporarily in Washington.

The main issue of the case, according to Judge Henderson's opinion, was that the only way to restore to the wife her proper share of the proceeds of their mutual property was to hold Porter in jail until he disgorge or proves in the proper manner and at proper proceedings his inability to pay.

Judge Henderson jailed Porter in June for contempt of court for failure to abide by the court's decree in an equity suit in which his wife, Mrs. Viola A. Porter, was granted a partial divorce. He is still in the County Jail.

Porter's attorney indicated he would appeal the decision to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Ridgeley Will Have Honor Roll

Granite which will be used for the honor roll on the lawn of the home of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, is expected to arrive here within the next few weeks.

Roland Shovers, chairman of the project, who is compiling a list of names which will be inscribed on the honor roll, said last night a Cumberland firm will polish up the granite, install it on the grounds and inscribe the names with a sand blasting process.

The dedication of the Honor Roll is slated for Veterans' Day, November 11. Plans for the erection of the honor roll were completed Tuesday night during a post meeting.

Showers said last night he is asking the cooperation of the public in order that no one will be omitted from the roll.

He pointed out that he is seeking the names of residents of the two voting precincts of Ridgeley who paid the supreme sacrifice during World War I; those members of the post who were killed in World War II and the Korean conflict, as well as former members of the organization who moved away from the community and are now deceased.

All members of the post who have died since the cessation of the three wars also will be included on the roll.

Report Cites Active Milk Program Here

30,000 Gallons Daily Produced In Area

Allegheny County has a very active milk sanitation program, according to a report received here on a recent survey of the Cumberland area milkshed.

And A. A. Pais, state milk supervisor, who conducted the survey with the assistance of J. B. Dowling and Harvey Shockley, local Health Department sanitarians, pointed out that the benefits to Cumberland of a safe, good quality milk supply are extended to the surrounding area.

It is quite an industry, the report shows, consisting of over 200 dairy farms, seven pasteurizing plants and one raw milk producer-distributor.

During the survey, checks were made of facilities of 47 farm producers and all dairy plants.

Dairy farms of the county are processing about 12,881 gallons of milk daily, and less than one per cent of the product is sold as raw milk.

In addition to supplying milk handled by county dairies, the milkshed extending some 85 miles from Cumberland also furnishes another 18,000 gallons of milk daily for the Embassy Dairy, Washington; Grantsville Creamery, Washington; Grantsville Creamery, Grantsville; Hagan Ice Cream Company, Pittsburgh; Pike's Dairy, Uniontown, Pa., and Fairmont Creamery, Martinsburg, W. Va.

Total production of the milkshed is in the neighborhood of 30,000 gallons daily.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, county health officer, said the survey rating is used as a basis of interstate shipment of milk.

All dairies operating in the Cumberland milkshed hold Grade A ratings, granted by the Health Department on the basis of bacteriological tests and supervision of dairy farms and milk plants.

Equity Suits Filed

Md. Forest Fire Prevention Record To Be Singled Out

Maryland's outstanding forest fire prevention record will be singled out for special acclaim in a salute to the 50th anniversary of Maryland's Department of Forests and Parks September 30 to October 4 at LaPlata in Charles County.

The first national motel-type convention in history in the picturesque Southern Maryland community will mark the 81st annual convention of the American Foresters' Association, meeting in conjunction with the Association of State Foresters.

Maryland's fire losses have gone down steadily at a time when much of the South has experienced devastating fire losses annually—last year induced in part by excessive drought. Losses were whittled last year to 371 fires on slightly less than 2,000 acres. This year the record is even better.

Ability to move rapidly because of intensive mechanization of fire fighting equipment and a good forest road net are given as reasons for the progress by Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the State Department of Forests and Parks, and H. C. Buckingham, state forester.

Heading the list of speakers who will explore the problems of the industry are Dr. R. E. McArdle, chief of the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, whose organization conducted the timber resource survey.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin will welcome the delegates to the state. Dr. Wilson Compton, vice president of the American Foresters' Association, will respond. Dr. Reuben G. Gustavson, president and director of the Resources for the Future Inc., will speak at the annual banquet October 2.

District Forester William H. Johnson is planning to represent Western Maryland at the conference.

W.Va. Survey Stresses Value Of New Plants

An attempt to improve the economic condition of a nearby West Virginia area is illustrated by a 43-page bulletin now being distributed by the West Virginia University Agricultural Experiment Station.

It is entitled "Availability for Employment of Rural People in the Upper Monongahela Valley, West Virginia." The survey was done by W. F. Porter and W. H. Metzler.

Porter was associate rural sociologist and associate professor of rural sociology at West Virginia University. He is now extension analyst, Teaching Methods Research Branch, Division of Research and Training, Federal Extension Service, USDA, Washington, D. C.

Metzler is labor economist for the Agriculture Research Service of the USDA in Washington.

Counties concerned in the survey are Barbour, Harrison, Lewis, Marion, Monongalia, Preston, Randolph, Taylor, Tucker and Upshur.

Using data collected in July 1954, the report is based on a sample of 2,287 persons 14 persons of age and over. Almost 16 per cent of those surveyed were either looking for work or were potentially available for employment at the time of the survey.

This was at a time when West Virginia ranked first among all the states in the percentage of insured workers who were unemployed.

Among the male heads of households, almost 20 per cent were available for employment.

The survey concludes that it is likely that suitable industries, situated either within the valley or nearby, would attract a considerable labor force from the area.

"The existence of power and other industrial facilities and resources, as well as surplus labor, would appear to suggest the feasibility of locating within the valley or in adjacent counties."

"Such a location would have the added advantage of relative stability in the labor force, as it would permit workers to maintain their family connections and community ties."

"Ample opportunities exist locally for the development of new industries or the expansion of others currently in operation," said the report.

C&P Conducting First Aid Talks

A first aid training course is being held at the C&P Telephone Company for its employees in conjunction with the Allegheny County Civil Defense Program, according to Robert Garner, local manager.

The two-day course is being conducted by Edward Ashley, assistant defense coordinator for the C&P Company from Baltimore, and will end this afternoon.

Garner said the purpose for the program is to train persons from different sections of the company to be ready in any emergency.

The application of splints, stopping bleeding and other types of emergency first aid are a few of the things that Ashley will give instructions on, Garner said.

Those taking the course are Phyllis Sneathon, Jacqueline Schaid, Thomasine Clay, Alma Hare, Jane Perdue, Helen Hare and Carolyn Murray. This group represents a cross-section from the traffic, construction, plant and commercial departments of the company.

Buchholtz Urges Reappraisal Of Crosstown Span

Feels SRC Should Bear Major Cost

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz last night said he is in favor of a "complete reappraisal of the Crosstown Expressway," and feels that the State Roads Commission should "assume the major portion of the cost of the bridge."

Buchholtz said that since the original contract was based on the Whitman-Requardt Associates survey a number of years ago, it was not based on the present traffic problem.

He said he understands a 150-foot right of way now is necessary and that the State Roads Commission would have to acquire more property in Cumberland along the route of the proposed bridge.

Costs Important

Buchholtz said that the right of way is considerably more than in the original plans. He said that "in all fairness to the taxpayer," the cost to the city is important.

Such costs will include maintenance of the project, loss of revenues, such as removing property from the tax book and the cost of removal of utilities.

Yesterday, Mayor Roy W. Eves said he is seeking advance plans from the SRC so that the city may know where it stands, particularly in the matter of building permits. (story on page 5).

Buchholtz recalled that he was a member of the City Council when the first spadeful of ground was dug for the current flood control project, and since then costs have risen.

On this basis he said the city should negotiate with the SRC before entering an agreement and meet with the State to assume the major portion of the cost of the bridge.

"Lessen The Burden"

He said the taxpayer has a right to such a reappraisal in order to lessen the burden. He pointed out that the state is being relieved of expense through the federal aid program.

Buchholtz said last night that he will not vote on any contract or contracts in connection with the Crosstown Expressway until a complete reappraisal of the project is completed.

He added that he is still fighting for two other projects, the C&O Canal Parkway from Cumberland to Washington, D. C., and also the inclusion of U. S. Route 40 from Hancock to Washington, Pa., in the Federal Interstate Highway System.

Woman Injured In Auto Crash

A Valley Road woman was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with injuries sustained in an auto-truck crash at the intersection of Greene and Lee streets.

Reported in "fair" condition is Mrs. Helen Humbertson, 34, of RD 3, Valley Road. Driver of the car was William R. James, also of Valley Road. They were on their way to work at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Police said the car pulled out of Lee Street onto Greene Street and was struck broadside by a truck operated by James E. Smith, RD 3, Bedford Valley, Pa.

The car was spun around by the impact and was shoved into a utility pole. Both doors of the car came open and Mrs. Humbertson fell to the ground. # Festival Of Sukkos Observed

Typical of the religious ceremonies held throughout the world as the Jewish Festival of the Tabernacles begins is this scene at Beth Jacob Synagogue here. The Feast of Sukkos, or Succoth, commemorating the flight of the Israelites from Egypt, and the autumn harvest, is an eight-day celebration of deep significance for Jewish people. Seen in the makeshift tabernacle, similar to huts used by the Israelites, are Howard Kruth, his mother, Mrs. Leon Kruth, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Goodman and Rabbi Gabriel Maza of Beth Jacob. Fruits and vegetables, symbols of the occasion, are hung in the hut.
